Declaration of CE Conformity

To bring products to market (or put them into service) for the first time and safely within the EU, the products must bear the CE marking in accordance with EU directives.

As a manufacturer and distributor, we declare with the CE marking that the product complies with the applicable requirements established in the relevant Community legislation concerning its application.

By issuing the CE Declaration of Conformity, we assume responsibility for the conformity of the product with all requirements under the relevant Community legislation.

Quality Control and Documentation

Compliance with and implementation of all standards listed in the CE Declaration of Conformity are professionally monitored, documented, and controlled. Continuous quality checks, from the order confirmation of new items to initial storage, confirm the safety and conformity of the items.

Additionally, technical documentation for all our articles is available. This documentation provides information about the design, manufacture, and operation of our products. The technical documentation is required to demonstrate that the product meets essential requirements and serves to justify and support the EU Declaration of Conformity.

Supplier Selection and Training

All our suppliers are selected based on strict quality requirements. Contracts are only awarded when it can be ensured that a supplier meets all requirements.

Essential Components and Certifications

An essential aspect of the quality and safety of our products is that all installed components are certified and comply with European standards. Upon customer request, full certifications can be requested. However, this entails significant additional costs and much longer delivery times.
